How to Detect Classical Music.

"I can give a simple rule by which the most ignorant may know whether any given piece of music should or should not be admired," remarked the music critic of the Bohemian to the horse reporter. "If you know what it is all about; if it seems to be saying 1, 2, 3, hop, hop, hop, or 1, 2, 3, bang, bang, bang, you may include at once that you are listening to something of a very low order, which it is your duty to despise. But when you hear something that sounds as if an assorted lot of notes had been put into a barrel and were being persistently stirred up, like a kind of harmonious gruel, that is a false, and assume an expression of profound interest. If the notes appear to have been dropped by accident, and are being fished up by irregular intervals in a sort of placid or drowsy condition, it is likely to be a nocturne, and nocturnes, you know, are quite too utterly lovely for anything. If the notes seem to come in car loads, each of a different kind from the first, and if the train seems to be an unreasonably long time on passing a given point, it will turn out, most likely, to be a symphony, and symphonies are just the grandest things that ever were. If the notes appear to be dumped out in masses, and then blown wildly into the air, by explosions of dynamite, that is ragtime; and ragtime is among the latest things in music."—Bohemian.

Hawaiian Gazette

TEN - PAGE EDITION.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1889.

His Majesty King KALAKAUA was 53 years of age Friday, having been born November 16, 1836. He was elected King February 12, 1874, and is therefore in the fifteenth year of his reign. Long may their Majesties the King and Queen live and worthily reign over the Kingdom of Hawaii.

Those who accepted Mr. Dillingham's invitation to ride over his new railway to Pearl River, Saturday—and they numbered several thousands—appear to have enjoyed the novelty very much. Not a hitch or an accident occurred during the day, though trains ran from either terminus every two hours, and each train of six or seven cars was crowded to its utmost capacity. The road is nearly level, and is only three or four feet above tide water. In fact the tract runs close along or over the marshes, fishponds and lagoons, and the scenery that opens to the view of passengers is in some places really charming. The last two miles of the road lie along the shore of Pearl River lagoons, and this will continue on through Ewa, and the stretch of three or four miles beyond the village. The land near and above the railroad, through its entire length, is probably capable of being irrigated by artesian wells, and thus brought under cultivation, for bananas, rice or fruit trees. If this prove to be the case, it will not be long before the entire route is filled up with settlers, who will raise produce and have a sure and speedy conveyance to market.

The sad termination of the balloon ascension on Saturday afternoon has cast a gloom over what would have otherwise been a very pleasant national holiday. At this writing, perhaps all the facts may not be known, but enough is known to indicate a seeming want of precaution against accident. A strong trade wind was blowing off shore at the time, and the certainty of the balloon and the parachute being blown off to sea, should have led to the adoption of some safeguards in case of necessity. The most natural among others would have been for the aeronaut to have put on or taken with him a light life preserver, which is said to have been provided for him, but which he declined to take, and secondly for those in charge to have had a small steamer ready to furnish timely aid in the event of being carried out to sea.

The adoption of these simple precautionary measures was neglected; for what reasons remain to be explained. Had either of them been taken the young aeronaut might have been rescued from the peril in which his daring spirit tempted him before the cold waters of the ocean had closed over him forever. We know it is easy, after an accident, to say what might have been done, and how it might have been prevented. The lesson to be learned from this fatal disaster is, that Honolulu is not the place for balloon ascensions.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.
"By the President of the United States, a proclamation: A highly favored people, mindful of their dependence on the bounty of a Divine Providence, should seek a fitting occasion to testify their gratitude and ascribe praise to him who is the author of their many blessings. It behooves us then to look back with thankful hearts over the past year and bless God for his infinite mercy in vouchsafing to our land enduring peace; to our people freedom from pestilence and famine; to our husbandmen abundant harvests, and to them that labor a recompense of their toil. Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, earnestly recommend that Thursday, the 29th day of this present month of November, be set apart as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, and that the people of our country, ceasing from the cares and labor of their working day, shall assemble in their respective places of worship and give thanks to God who has prospered us on our way and made our paths paths of peace, beseeching him to bless our present and future good, making it truly one of thanksgiving for each re-united home circle as well as for the nation at large. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and fourteenth.

BENJAMIN HARRISON, President.
Jas. G. Blair, Secy of State.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER

Per S. S. Australia, San Francisco, November 8, 1889.
(From Our San Francisco Correspondent.)
The Sugar Market.

There is nothing new in the sugar market, but Eastern advisers report the demand very slack for refined, and a dull market for the raw product, with large stocks in sight. Of the latter market the New York Shipping List says: "There is in reality no market for supplies of any description or in any position, the absence of demand being due to the fact that refiners both here and in neighboring cities have all the stock they require and care to carry in the present condition of affairs, so that the making of sales is not a question of price." The latest quotation for Cuba 96 degree test was 5 1/2.

Consul Turner, at St. Thomas, West Indies telegraphs the State Department at Washington that Santa Cruz has made during the past year an unusually large crop of sugar the output being estimated at 20,000 hogsheads of 1,500 pounds each.

In connection with the report of the formation of a steamship line at Seattle by Minister A. P. Carter comes another to the effect that the reason that the line is to be formed is because another company in which Carter is also interested intends to erect a sugar refinery either here or at Tacoma.

Claus Spreckels is still looking for a larger field for operating against the Sugar Trust. His latest move is in an unexpected direction and is said to have increased the anxiety of the Trust managers. Spreckels recently purchased a large tract of land in Algiers, Louisiana opposite New Orleans and will erect a large refinery for the purpose of handling cane sugar.

The beet sugar industry is beginning to assume an important position and promises to soon become one of the great wealth-producing interests in the state. Reports from Watsonville regarding the result of this year's harvest are very flattering and show that the raising of sugar beets is far more profitable than wheat. In Los Angeles county subscriptions are being raised for the purpose of handling a beet sugar factory and arrangements are about completed for the construction of a big plant in the Chino ranch in San Bernardino county. It is asserted that the land will clear $800 a year in refined sugar.

It is estimated that the output of the beet sugar factory at Watsonville will be 2,400 tons this season as against 1,600 last year. Much of the product of 1889 has gone as high as 38 per cent. in saccharine matter.

The Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar company will hold its annual meeting for the election of directors on the 15th of this month.

Claus Spreckels is said to have in contemplation the construction of a narrow-gauge line twelve miles long from the Moro Cojo ranch, near Castrolito, to the refinery and factory at Watsonville. The route of the proposed line has been surveyed and its construction will, it is said, be commenced almost immediately.

From the ranch the line will proceed along the Salinas river below Gibson's Landing, it will then skirt the beach and run along the Pajaro creek for six miles to the factory at Watsonville.

A Philadelphia dispatch says that the first cargo of sugar destined for Spreckels' new refinery, 1,100 tons, is on the way now from Batavia.

The Sugar Trust is now furnishing 53 per cent of the output, against 73 per cent in 1888 and 65 per cent for the first six months of 1889.

Claus Spreckels is soliciting orders for sugar from his new refinery at Philadelphia, now about ready to start. Selling agents have been appointed in Boston and other Atlantic cities.

A paragraph is going the rounds of the press that the sweetening power of beet sugar is only about one-half as great as that of cane sugar. This is not true. Where the purity is the same, the sweetening power is the same.

Referring to a statement of the sale of a Trust refinery to Havemeyer & Elder, the Boston News Bureau says: "It is stated by one familiar with the sugar business that this is probably meant to refer to the American refinery in California, which the courts have decided the Trust cannot legally operate. The Trust, therefore, sold it to private parties, under contract that it be operated for the benefit of the Trust." The New York Sun, in endeavoring to throw some light on the decline in Sugar Trust certificates, says: "The depreciation in raw sugars held by the Trust is estimated at from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000." The same paper prints five columns of an English Court decision upholding the principle of trusts and pronouncing them legal.

In a letter to the New York papers Claus Spreckels emphatically denies the reports that he is in circulation in the East to the effect that he will not operate his Philadelphia refinery himself. Upon that subject he says: "My refinery in Philadelphia was not built to be sold, and I have never had the least intention of disposing of it. I never asked the Trust to purchase my California refinery, and never named a sum for which it could be bought. But I have been asked to sell it and I have been asked to join the Trust, but I have absolutely declined both propositions.

"As long as I am alive it is my intention to engage in business entirely upon my own account and without the interference or co-operation of any other individuals. I do not need and never have needed assistance from others, and I certainly have no use for the sugar Trust. The experience of the past two years has shown that those who refused to join the trust have acted wisely and fared very much better than those who were foolish enough to enter into such an illegal combination."

Suicide.
Thomas H. Harrison committed suicide in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, on Oct. 14th by shooting himself in the mouth with a pistol. There is a romance connected with Harrison's marriage and death. About three years ago he came from Honolulu and advertised for a housekeeper, representing himself as a carriage manufacturer. Ambro Samuels, a girl of 17, answered it "just for fun." The two met and ten days later they were married. They went to Honolulu later, where he tried to place her in a dive. Eventually the islanders ordered him to leave. They came here and he maltreated and abused her until she finally obtained a divorce last Friday. Harrison's former wife, Ambro Harrison, has been notified of his death. It is understood that she will see that he is properly buried.

Trouble in Guatemala.
Affairs are not progressing smoothly in Guatemala as indicated by dispatches, received via the city of Mexico, which state war is impending between Guatemala and San Salvador. The alleged motive for the bad feeling is that San Salvador does not want to enter into a compact for the unification of the Central American States. The consul-general for Guatemala at New York, has received a dispatch from the Secretary of Foreign Affairs of his country, instructing him to deny the report of a revolutionary outbreak in Guatemala. The trouble, he says, was a riot in the department of Santa Rosa "which was completely quelled in three days, and perfect peace now prevails." The Secretary's explanation is generally regarded as a correct one, and there is little fear of a Central American war.

An obstacle to a Central American federation is stated by a Nicaraguan paper, which says that Guatemala, Honduras and Costa Rica owed abroad $53,000,000, and that Nicaragua and Salvador are not anxious to enter into an amalgamation to share such a doubtful benefit. However, if union were agreed upon, the question of this debt might be easily settled by exempting the federation from its payment.

Fighting in Samoa.
A London cablegram of October 25th says, that news has been received via Auckland from Apia under date of October 15th, that a battle had taken place between the followers of Malietoa and those of Tamaeae. Three hundred were engaged on each side several were killed and many wounded. The conflict took place on the island of Savaii, but the cause of the fight was not given nor was it stated which side was victorious. No official report of the affair has yet been received at Washington and the officials of the State Department though somewhat startled at first, have concluded that the affair is of not great political importance.

San Francisco News.
Mrs. Charles Crocker, widow of the late Charles Crocker, died suddenly on October 28th. Her death was supposed to have been the result of heart disease. Her funeral which took place on November 5th, was largely attended by the leading citizens of the city. Her son, Col. Chas. F. Crocker, is absent in Europe.
In an opinion case recently tried in the U. S. District Court, one of the witnesses, an ex-inspector, declared that Deputy Surveyor of Port, Fogarty, is and has been in collusion with the opium ring. Fogarty denies the charge.
A sailor named James Finch attempted to shoot British Consul Donohoe in his office on October 25th. The bullet did no damage. Finch claims that the Consul had swindled him out of some money.
Dr. J. Milton Bowers, who became notorious as an alleged wife poisoner, has sued several insurance orders to recover $17,000 due on several policies on his wife's life.
The Board of Health shipped five Chinese lepers on the Peking to Hongkong on her last trip.
The Mechanics Institute propose to erect an immense pavilion on the site of the present structure. It will be modeled after the Chicago Auditorium cover the whole block and be four stories high.
The wreck of the ship Kenilworth has been sold to Williams, Dimond Co. for $55,100. She will be rebuilt.
Miss Clara Huntington daughter of Col. P. Huntington the great railroad magnate, was married in London on October 29th to Prince Hatzfeldt, nephew of the German Emperor.

In accordance with his request Admiral Kimberly has been relieved of his command of the Pacific squadron. His successor is Commodore Brown, commandant of the Norfolk Navy yard, who will assume his duties at once. Commodore Brown has been on shore duty since 1881. He is a very efficient officer.
By the new overland schedule to go into effect Nov. 17th, it is expected to bring New York mail to San Francisco nearly a day sooner than at present. Trains will make much faster time than at present and will run through solid from Omaha to San Francisco and Portland.
